Lincoln Students Have Fun Duct Taping Assistant Principal to the Wall for Achieving AR Challenge

Students at Lincoln Elementary School have been participating in a Wildcat Reading Challenge this year. Each nine weeks, students and staff are challenged to read a set of specific book genres and earn a certain number of AR (Accelerator Reader) points. During the first nine weeks, students participated in a Leopard Challenge, and a Cheetah Challenge the second nine weeks. Students almost doubled their number of successful readers in the Cheetah Challenge!

Cheetah readers were recognized this week with a Cheetah Charge. After being announced, readers charged their way across the gym and were given a piece of duct tape. They used their duct tape to tape assistant principal Dawn Mills to the wall! Mills reported, "It was a lot of fun. This nine weeks, all students who finish their library sheet and achieve their AR goal will get to SLIME me!"

In the second picture, 2nd grader Thomas Pettit and 4th grade teacher Lindsay Burkhalter are shown taping Dawn Mills
